MORRIS CASE IS TO BE TRIED IN LOCAL COURT

Albuquerque Lawyers will ask
Habeas Corpus Before Judge
Raynolds in Behalf of Gallup Banker.

The criminal charge against W. M. Morris, Gallup banker, who was bound to the grand jury in a preliminary hearing at Gallup Saturday afternoon, and bailed at $500, is to be heard before Judge Raynolds in the district court here, upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus. O. N. Marron of Marron and Wood, returned from Gallup Sunday night after appearing for Morris in Justice court and stated that he would prepare the application for the habeas corpus writ at once and place it before Judge Raynolds as quickly as possible.

Morris, who was under $10,000 bond following the alleged assault upon W. L. Bishop, superintendent of the Gallup public schools, refused to furnish the $500 bond required by the justice of the peace, who held him to the grand jury and is at liberty under a special guard pending the habeas corpus hearing.

The evidence at the preliminary hearing tended to show for the state that Morris approached Bishop from behind and struck him with a rock. Professor Bishop is the chief witness for the prosecution. For the defense the evidence tended to show that Morris struck Bishop while facing him and after a struggle and that it was a plain case of a street fight in which Morris contended he was beaten after Bishop had insulted Mrs. Morris.

Purifies Blood With Telling Effect

Gives Conscious Evidence of Its Direct Action.

R. R. R., the famous blood purifier, almost as black as ink, sweeps its way through the circulation. Its action is so direct that very often in some forms of skin affection the rash disappears in a single change of night, the tick and redness are gone and recovery begins immediately.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in R. R. R. which serves the active purpose of eliminating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious extent of its own weight.

This is why it purges the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues R. R. R. has a rapid and positive antioxidant effect upon all the internal influences.

These causes, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks, and that weariness of muscle and nerve that is generally experienced as spring fever.

Get a bottle of R. R. R. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but will also notice the picture of new life.

R. R. R. is prepared and sold in the laboratory of The Health Specialty Co., 504 Swift Building, Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disease of a stomach nature are given free from charge a special book of instruction.

MILITARY HONORS FOR GENERAL SICKLES

Board Makes Selection this Afternoon from Many Candidates for the Position

PHYSICAL CULTURE DIRECTRESS NAMED

Board is Considering Establishment of Summer School with Manual Training and Domestic Science

J. W. Giltner was elected principal of the Albuquerque high school by the board of education by unanimous vote at the regular meeting of the board this afternoon. Mr. Giltner was chosen from a long list of applicants for the position, all of whom received careful investigation by a committee of the board. Mr. Giltner and his family have lived in Albuquerque for several months, having come here from Portland, Oregon, where Mr. Giltner has had wide experience in public school work.

The board this afternoon created a new department of school work for the coming year in the election of Miss Lydia Fadner as director of physical culture in the public schools.

This department will be established not only in the high school but in the grades next year and will be given special attention by the board.

Other teachers elected this afternoon were Misses Ethel Schroeder of Albuquerque and Jane Heron, now on the teaching force, and Mary Costello of New York in positions in the grades.

The board is still considering just the establishment of a summer school which will give special attention to domestic science and manual training. This school is favored by Superintendent Milne who reported to the board on the expense of conducting it, and while a final vote had not been taken, it is believed the board will approve the plan and establish the school.

FRED HEYN MUST GIVE BACK AUTO TO LILLY ESTATE

By order of Judge Reynolds, entered today in the district court, Hiram L. Stitzer, who is suing his wife, Eva, for divorce, must pay the latter $300 for counsel fee and $20 a month alimony during the pendency of the suit.

Laurence F. Lee, administrator of Dr. John E. Lilly's estate, was granted an order requiring Fred Heyn to return to the estate a Ford automobile which he purchased. The administrator repossessed the auto on the ground that it was sold without order of the court, and was still legally the property of the estate.

Judge M. C. Mechem of Socorro sat in the district court here today to hear an application for a new trial in the case of the First National bank against Frederick Street, in which it was ruled that the corner could not collect a note for $6,250.

If any are aware of any statute or code of morals," said Heyn to his critics, "which makes it infamous to forgive a woman, I can now see in the almost universal concurrence with which she is followed to my threshold, the misery and peril from which I have rescued the mother of my daughter. I shall strive to prove to all that an erring wife and mother may be forgiven and redeemed."

Mrs. Sickles died of a broken heart a few years later.

At the outbreak of the civil war, the young fighting politician, then 28 years old, went to Lincoln to offer his services.

"You have been a leader in New York Democratic politics," said the president. "If you keep your end up in that game surely you'll do to take command of men in the field. Raise your regiments and you shall be brigadier-general in command."

Sickles raised the famous Excelsior brigade in New York, taking command of one of its regiments as colonel.

Lincoln kept his word and in 1861 raised him to brigadier-general.

His fighting spirit early won him his spurs. On the Peninsula and at Antietam he distinguished himself as a soldier and leader. At Chancellorsville he led a division. At Gettysburg he led the Third corps, lost a leg, and became a national hero. At 27 years of age he had risen from a colonel to major-general of volunteers.

After the war his fighting spirit led him to the regular army, and he became first, brigadier and then major-general.

He continued in active service until 1869, when he was appointed minister to Spain by President Grant.

At the court of Spain, Sickles' vigorous personality made him a dominating figure. Four years of brilliant diplomacy brought him the epithet of "The Yankee King of Spain."

Here he contracted his second marriage, with the beautiful and distinguished Senora Creagh. This romance was followed by estrangement which was to last more than a quarter century. In addition to this domestic trouble, came his interference in the marriage plans of his daughter to a penniless Spanish nobleman. Father and daughter separated in bitterness, the latter returning to the United States to die without reconciliation.

Returning alone to New York, General Sickles again entered politics.

He served as sheriff of New York and at 67 he was re-elected to congress.
